

Rules of technical maintenance of in-house gas consumption systems and Service Fees

Technical maintenance at multistoried buildings and in-house system of gas consumption is realized not less than once during the period from October 1st till April 1st (first accounting half-year) and not less than once during the period from April 1st till October 1st (second accounting half-year).

Payment for the service regarding technical maintenance is approved by the Commission of regulation of public services and mentions following:

- For one gas using equipment – 2270 drams;
- For two – 4540 drams;
- For three and more – 6810 drams.

Consumer pays 50% of annual payment, which is approved by the Commission, during following accounting month after provision of services of technical maintenance. As a result, consumer pays for service provided in fact.

If during accounting period consumer received the service of technical maintenance, the service would be included into the bill of gas consumed (in the amount of 50% of annual payment). Otherwise, there will be no charges for the service. In that case, current procedures do not oblige consumer to pay for the service in advance.
